Additional Information:

The number of rounds per day may vary due to weather conditions. We plan is to jump the first two rounds Thursday afternoon.

The following information is unofficial and will need to be approved by the Chief Judge and Race Commission!

With the ever increasing numbers of competitors, we cannot be as flexible anymore as we used to be if it comes to "prejumping" rounds on Thursday for competitors who might not be able to be on the dropzone Friday morning. We might however – if the first two rounds are finished early on Thursday – allow one single load (maximum 16 competitors) to "prejump" round 3 Thursday evening.

If you are seriously interested in the option for urgent reasons please let us know asap as this load will be premanifested before the start of the competition. The same option may apply again if the competition is progressing well, Friday, late afternoon. This might not be possible for the last preliminary round 6 and this will not be possible for semi-finals and finals!

Besides the first three places in the open class, we will see in this fifth ISSA-competition in Germany the German National Champion being honoured, making this event not only part of this years ISSA WorldSeries but the German National SpeedSkydiving Championships (inofficial) as well. For this reason we'll have an additional national ranking list throughout the competition.

By the time of writing the competition is limited to a maximum of 64 competitors, *experienced speedcompetitors come first.
